

Welcome everyone, to the next of our occasional newsletters. These are separate from the Director's weekly updates, which are issued as required once rehearsals are underway. If anyone wishes to contribute, please contact Martin

Okewood Hill Murder Mystery Supper

This passed off very well, our very own Jenny, Mark and Nic joined others from Okewood Hill to make a very enjoyable dinner evening.

Snowden White and the seven dwarves

Rehearsals are under way. The children's dances are now taking shape nicely, the opening dance ("Bang bang" by BA Robertson) is taking shape well, this will be performed by all dancers of all ages. The second act dance (also called "Bang bang" but this by Jessie J) will be danced by the older children: this has more involved steps but is progressing well. Act 1 will close with the Laughing Gnomes (David Bowie), this routine has not yet begun. this dance will be preformed only by the younger children (who will then be free to leave)

Acting rehearsals: these are progressing well. Last weekend was 'scripts down' and the standard achieved was commendably high

Capel performance:

Many of you will recall that the Saturday evening performance in capel has been tricky to fill in the past (the remaining six performances are not generally a problem). I am delighted to say that our new friends, and new landlord/lady at the Crown Inn, Tanya and Noel, have agreed a "curry and panto" joint ticket, details are attached. Please do help to spread the word.

Christmas Dinner:

As mentioned at the A.G.M. and in the last newsletter we are re introducing our Xmas dinner: we have reserved the dining room at The Cricketers' Arms, Saturday 17th December at 7pm. Numbers are limited to the first 21.

Places are filling fast, we need to finalise numbers and menu choice this weekend. Please confirm with Lisa Jayne, ALL are welcome (incl children)

Membership:

A reminder: please forward your subs to Dave Claydon. It is a condition of participation that you are a member in order to activate the insurance cover. Cost is £10/p.a. (£5 for 16 years and under)

Christmas:

Have a lovely break and new year, rehearsals resume on Tuesday 3rd. see emails.
